

Bronze Expedition Kit List

Lets face it, the more you carry the less you will enjoy your expedition...how often after all do you walk for up to 8 hours a day carrying between 20-35% more than your usual bodyweight? Doing so will hurt – shoulders, waists and feet all become painful after doing this, the only way to get used to it is to train regularly.

The following list is a standard equipment list for DofE Bronze Expeditions; it is not designed to take into account specific conditions that may be encountered in some environments and should be considered a base level list.

The most sensible thing you can do is to check the weather forecast for the area your expedition is taking place and prepare with this in mind.

If the forecast is for sunny conditions then a sun hat and sun cream are essentials, if it is set to rain then dry socks for each day will be welcome along with appropriate waterproofing of yourself and your kit.

Failing to prepare is preparing to fail, or at least be very uncomfortable.

The group should plan together over the equipment that can be shared, this includes food. Remember there is no point in everyone carrying toothpaste when one small tube between the groups will do. The same goes for the stove, wash kit etc. On bronze I am sure that everyone can go one night without a shower so save weight here as well.

Small weight savings add up for example, remove all the packaging from your food. If a piece of kit is not absolutely necessary, do not take it.

There are certain items you cannot walk without waterproofs, a spare set of warm clothes, enough food etc. Follow the list below and use it as a checklist.
